WORK EXPERIENCE

Social Media & Marketing Intern June 2015 – August 2015
Wataah! / wat-aah.com

During my time at Wataah! I was responsible for:

- Engaging with users on social media to promote increased engagement in contests and on posts.
- Managing Twitter Profile, Facebook Page, and other social media profiles.
- Taking pictures at a community engagement events.
- Creating creative posts based on trending topics on social media.
- Developing advertising campaigns geared toward teens.

Head of Marketing December 2015 – Present def hacks() / defhacks.xyz

def hacks() is a hackathon for high school students of all coding levels, hosted by high school students. As the Head of Marketing I am in charge of creating creative social media posts, acquiring students to join our def hacks() and receiving media coverage. I am also in charge of all press releases and email marketing lists.

PROJECTS

TeenJobs.NYC / teenjobs.nyc June 2015 – Present Founder

Many of my friends including me were frustrated with the lack of opportunities for teens to work over the summer. I decided to change that by creating TeenJobs.NYC. TeenJobs.NYC is a free resource for teens and employers to find interested teens to work over the summer or during the year. (in development)

LMG Programming Club / programmingclub.org September 2015 – Present
President and Founder

I started the LMG Programming Club in September of 2015 to teach students how to code. I saw the lack of access to technology classes other than web design at my high school and I decided to help by creating a programming club. In the club I teach Python through interactive assignments incorporating services like Slack and Codecademy.

Young & Rubicam (Dell) / yrnyc.com March 2015 – June 2015
Team leader

I took part in a great opportunity with Young & Rubicam NYC to create an ad campaign for Dell with students from my high school. I was the only Freshman and Team Leader in the group. My group had to create a creative advertising campaign for the holidays.
